THE REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET.

Comments of Leading Newspapers Upon the Nominees.

THE CONVENTION.
 [Carson Index 7th.]

No able or more independent body of men has ever assembled in Nevada than the one composing the Republican Convention which met at Reno last Monday. Almost without exception the delegates were honestly determined to do their very best for the Republicanism of our State, and acted regardless of any pressure that might be brought to bear from monetary or other improper influences. The circumstances were peculiar and by means free from grave difficulty. The predominant sentiment was that the party in this State should be at once and decisively redeemed from the degrading bossism that has too often asserted its power in the party councils. The struggle hinged very largely upon the gubernatorial nomination and the result was a victory for the rank and file. No artifice was sufficiently adroit, or diversion strong enough to seriously mislead the honest purpose of the delegates to reflect the real will of the people. The Convention represented very faithfully the determination of the rank and file to launch the Republican ship for a new voyage and under new commanders. The true spirit of Americanism prevailed and a new departure was effected. We are aware that to very many there seem to be some anomalies in the line of nominations as made, but on closer examination this view of the matter will be found incorrect. Bearing in mind the material from which the Convention found itself entitled to select, and the necessary fact that no Convention ever succeeds in making a full list of candidates which is free from well directed criticism, it clearly transpires that no Republican ticket has been put forth in this State under better auspices or which was more in accord with an improved party sentiment. Objections to individual candidates lose very much of their force if the circumstances leading to their nominations were exponent of honest purpose and intelligent action. It will be found that the Convention itself was so able and straightforward of action and good intention that the ticket throughout has a strength which could scarcely be contributed by a collection of supposedly abler and truer men not having such an endorsement. The Convention did well. Good feeling prevailed. A better and more legitimate party career was resolved upon, and the Republican rank and file should heartily stand shoulder to shoulder in seconding and supporting the advanced attitude taken at Reno. What was imperfectly done or omitted can be rectified next time, and the mistakes, if any, of the present corrected in the future. Let the people cheerfully recognize improvement, however small it may seem to them in degree, and make it their own work to consolidate and advance all movement that tends in the right direction. Their hearty support of the ticket will make it even better than it is now, and the delegates will realize a most pleasing reward for their honest efforts in Convention. Let harmony and good will prevail. Better days are at hand.

THE REPUBLICAN TICKET.

[Austin Revell, 6th.]

Thus it will be seen that the Republican State ticket is now placed before the voters for their approval or rejection. Some of the nominations are very strong and judicious and will meet with the approbation of the party generally, while others will have a tough fight, and may not be able to pull through, unless the Democracy should make some mistake in their favor at Eureka. As remarked yesterday, Mr. Strother, if elected, will make a most excellent Governor. He is not widely and generally known, but in this, like in the nomination of L. R. Bradley for Governor by the Democracy a few years ago, may lie his greatest element of strength. C. E. Laughton is a very able, genial gentleman, and as paymaster, etc., in the railroad office at Carson he is well-known throughout that section. Of Powning for Congress, Leonard for Supreme Judge, and Bicknell, Dormer, Hallock, Tuffy and Davenport as nominees for the respective positions to which they aspire, it is superfluous to make extended mention; their abilities and fitness are well-known and established. For Superintendent of Public Instruction, C. S. Young, of Gold Hill, was a most excellent selection, and the same may be said of Preble, of Reno, for Surveyor General. On the whole the ticket is a pretty strong one, and all will be anxious to see if the Democracy can or will get up one to beat it.

The platform adopted by the convention is long and comprehensive. It declares renewed fidelity to the principles of the party, as expressed in the Chicago platform of 1880, and embodied in the past history of the party, refers to the grievous death of President Garfield, expresses faith in the administration of Arthur, calls for the strenuous enforcement of the Chinese law, recognizes the importance of defending the free public school system of the State against sectarian, political or other improper influences, calls for such wholesome and effective legislation by Congress as will protect the people of this State against the unjust and discriminative extortions of railroad monopolies, favors the establishment of a postal telegraph service by Government in connection with the Postoffice Department, invokes Congressional legislation to place silver coinage on the same basis as that of gold, calls for legislation to purify the ballot-box, reduce the expenses of State and county governments to the lowest practicable limits, the codification of the mining laws, and an appropriation by Congress for the payment of pensions to invalid Union soldiers and veterans of the Mexican war.

GOVERNOR STROTHER.

[Carson Index, 7th.]

The Daily Index will be pardoned for expressing its special gratification over the nomination of Mr. Strother for the Nevada Governorship. It has from an early date been consistently the advocate of this nomination and believes very earnestly that no better selection could have been made at this time for the head of our State Republican ticket. Not only will he be elected, but with him every candidate whose name accompanies his on the ticket. He gives strength to the entire series of nominations.

NEVADA STATE NOMINATIONS.

[Grass Valley Union, 7th.]

The machine appears to have been badly broken up in the Republican Convention of the State of Nevada, as Gov. Kinkaid, the present incumbent, who had been anxiously seeking a renomination, found himself with such a meagre following that he dared not submit his name. Enoch Strother, of Virginia City, was the successful candidate. Gen. Connor, who has been the particularly bright military star of the State, found the pen was mightier than the sword when he encountered young Powning, of the Reno Journal, who ruthlessly slaughtered him, receiving sixty-seven votes to the General's thirty. In the other nominations, as far as reported, the machine appeared to have been pretty much set aside.

He Got Mesmerized.

[New York Star, June 1.]

"The old, old story, I suppose!" said Justice Gardner, in the Tombs Court yesterday, to a prisoner in the care of Patrolman Golder of the Sixth Precinct. "Out with the soldiers on Decoration Day, met a friend and got drunk."

Thomas Holbrook of Brooklyn looked hard at the magistrate. "You've only told half the truth," said he gloomily. "I was out with the soldiers and met a friend in Greenwood Cemetery; that's never before there; I got mesmerized—that's what's the matter with me—I got mesmerized." "I believe you—through the bottom of a glass; the other says he found you in Worth street with your back flat on the sidewalk. How's that?" "As for that, Judge, I couldn't swear how much that officer lies—"

"Stop, sir; I'll fine you for contempt of court if you say the officer lies." "Your Honor, what can I say more? I never saw this officer before this morning." "Where did you find you self this morning?" "I must confess in the stationhouse." "Ten dollars." "What's that for?" "Your lodging." "Out!" An escort showed him below.

Mr. Cassidy thinks if Woodburn is nominated by the Republicans it will crowd out Connor, because as he believes, they will not put two Irishmen on the ticket. This will account for the warm side Mr. Cassidy has for Adams, for, occupying to his theory, should Canadian be nominated it would land him on the shelf. [Eureka Leader.]

Strange Happenings—Danger Everywhere.

[Austin Revell, 6th.]

At Louisville, an old man aimed a kick at his wife, lost his balance, fell and was fatally injured.

In New York, an infant two months old died of erysipelas caused by piercing its ears.

A lady passenger on a New York Central train threw some peach-stones from a car window, and with them two rings valued at $775. They were not recovered.

A three-year-old daughter of John Dunkleberger of Williamsport, Pa., choked to death while eating popped corn.

At Baltimore a man who was being shaved heard a runaway, and thinking it was his team, jumped up and had his nose nearly cut off.

Frank Lodeke of Trenton, Ill., struck Wm. Werners a playful blow on the side of the head with his open hand, which broke his neck, and he died instantly.

At Rixford, Pa., Louis Garthwait lowered a forty-quart torpedo of nitroglycerine into a well, when the well made a sudden flow, struck the torpedo and blew him to pieces.

At Green Ridge, Pa., John Thompson and his brother tried to stop a dog fight, and the latter threw a stone at the animal, and missing them smashed his brother's skull.

At St. Louis, Thos. J. Wharton, Jr., taking up a large oyster, said: This is the kind of an oyster Walter Brooks choked to death on!" tried to swallow it and choked to death.

At Rock Castle, Ky., as the Rev. Mr. Petry entered a house a hen flew in and perched on a hanging rifle; it fell, and falling on the lock was discharged, killing the minister.

At Nanticoke, Pa., John Lefschuski broke a bottle of whiskey in his pocket saturating his clothes; when he subsequently lit a match they took fire, and he was fatally burned.

At Pittsburg, Mike Maroney entered a core oven in a foundry to warm himself, and another workman placed a core on the track, ran it in, closed the door and roasted him alive.

Accumulation of Modern Wealth.

In speaking of the rapid accumulation of wealth and capital in modern times, Professor W. H. Brewer says: "The material wealth and working capital of the civilized world has more than trebled within less than a lifetime, and now more than equals all that has been saved in all the thousands of years that had gone before, and that, too, while there has been a general enjoyment of life, and a much greater indulgence in its luxuries. The causes usually assigned for this rapid growth are the invention of modern machinery, the use of steam as a motor, the modern means of transportation, the application of the sciences to the arts and industries, the spread of popular education, the diminution of wars, and the production of the precious metals. All these have their influence, but the greatest of all causes is to be found in the better average health of civilized countries, and the longer average term of life which is now secured to workmen."

The Republicans of the county are actively at work, and so far no inharmonious differences exist in the ranks. This county is and should be fairly Republican with a square majority, and from present indications it will be rolled up in good round numbers in November.—Eureka Leader.

BREVITIES.

Don't forget the Miners' Union picnic to-day.

Glad to know that Mrs. H. J. Thyres is improving.

Many of the Western Democratic candidates and delegates returned from Eureka last night.

A former member suggests the reorganization of the Riverside Club, and proposes a dance for the 21st.

The first regular meeting of the Republican State Central Committee will be held at Virginia City next Thursday.

Miss Amy Head, who has been visiting Mrs. McFarland for the past two weeks, returned to San Francisco by last night's overland train.

The Preble-ant desire of the people of this State is for the Republican nominee of the late convention, and the Preble-ant opinion is that he is going to have a clear field; for his opponent, though Ernst by name, is not so by nature.

If every individual and every family would bestow a tithe of the care requisite in any ordinary attack of acute disease, in striving to prevent and ward off its attacks, there would rarely be any use for calling in the aid of the physician. The same care should be taken when you intend purchasing a good watch, to beware of the deus and dead-falls that infest San Francisco; but we note one exception, and that is the establishment of Uncle Harris, 221 Kearney St., San Francisco.

The Biting Fly.

The items in yesterday's JOURNAL about two persons being stung by a fly, one case of which proved fatal, have called forth considerable comment, and it has been suggested that the fly in question is not the ordinary house fly, but the black fly, such as infests the Humboldt river at periods of the year. The black fly is a small dipterous insect sometimes called gnat, midge and sand fly, about one-tenth of an inch in length. The color is black with transparent wings (whitish some call them); and the legs are short with a broad whitish band around them. This evidently is the character of the fly which Mr. Snodgrass was bitten by. In bright, still days they swarm in houses, crawling under tight-fitting garments and there keeping up their pleasant occupation of biting all the patience out of a human being. The bite is severe and stinging, each showing a point of blood and followed by an irritation and swelling which lasts several days. No veils or gloves protect against their attack as their small size, enables them to penetrate where ever they choose. The best remedy against them is a viscid ointment into which tar enters, and which arrests and destroys them. An ointment of Persian powder would be also beneficial. If these pests are going to become a factor in Reno civilization, tender and kind people may as well leave. There is a smaller midge a few miles East of Winnemucca which is a holy terror. They come forth in myriads towards evening, and creeping under clothing, bite like tigers, their bites feeling for the moment as if caused by sparks of fire. Thank Heaven we don't live near Winnemucca.

A Good First Choice.

The Reno Guard is starting out well in its selection of a team to represent it at the shooting match of the coming Miner's Union Picnic, to judge from the following letter:

RENO, SEPTEMBER 7, 1882,
ARMORY RENO GUARDS.
MR. R. F. HAY:

Dear Sir.—Last evening you were selected one of the team to participate in the shooting contest to take place at the picnic of the V. M. W., at Carson City September 9th, 1882. Trusting you will make necessary arrangements accordingly, I remain,

Yours truly,
WILL E. FISHER,
Secretary Co. C., N. S. M.

The boys of the Guards must continue to select the best men among them, especially those noted for the coolest nerve, to represent them on the 9th. There are many good shots in this and every other similar company of men, who can make bull's-eyes at every holiday meeting, but fail utterly through nervousness whenever a prize is fought for. Either have them to educate their nerves to a steady standard, or else weed them out of match teams.

THE FIRE FIEND.

Reno the Victim of Another Fire.
Caused as Usual by a Chinese Wash-house.

Yesterday morning, at about four o'clock, flames were discovered arising from the Chinese wash-house of See Wah on Virginia street, near the corner of Front street. About the first man aware of the fire was Mr. Holesworth, who lived in a house adjoining the Chinese. While in bed he was aroused by flames bursting into his bedroom through the adjoining partition. The alarm was spread as loudly as possible by the few people awake, but owing to the early hour scarcely five persons rallied at the engine house, and it took nearly three quarters of an hour, so it is said, to find the man who carried the key that would unlock the door and let the property saving engine rally to the fire. And even then there were so few people aroused that it took an unconscionably long time before the engine could be hauled to the fire.

THE ORIGIN OF THE FIRE

Was clearly in the China wash house of See Wah. Parties who were awake at three o'clock, state that everything was dark in the building at that hour. At half-past four evidently the Mongolians were hard at work and the ironing furnace was red-hot. This was the match which caused the destruction of thousands of dollars worth of property and beggared many worthy men. With their usual disregard for the rights due their neighbors, the heathens had built their furnace close up to the wall of their wooden shanty, and while never looking after it properly, often allowed it to become dangerously heated. Last night they did it once too often. The overheated furnace set fire to the walls of the shanty and that to Holesworth's dwelling, and before long Rotten Row, as it was often called in deference to the age and appearance of many of the buildings, was in flames.

THE HOUSES BURNED

were as follows, beginning from Front street:

Mr. Radovitch owned two houses, one occupied by Mr. Lewis, second-hand furniture dealer, the other by Mr. Ware, shoemaker.

The next three were owned by Mrs. Baker and were occupied by the See Wah wash house. Holesworth, carpenter, one being vacant.

The next three were Lake's buildings, one being occupied by Mr. Fowle, saddler and harness maker, and the other two vacant.

The next two were owned by R. F. Hoy, and were occupied respectively by Mr. Watson, shoemaker, and Mr. Gould, fruit dealer.

The next building, the newest and best frame building on the block, was owned and occupied by Mr. Grove, the photographer.

The last building destroyed to the northwards was the one owned and occupied by the Women's Temperance Union as a reading room.

THE PERSONAL PROPERTY

Destroyed by the fire was not very great most of the owners having been able to remove it to places of safety. Those, however, adjoining each side of the China house, lost nearly all their property.

Owing to the burned-out people being scattered through the town, no fair estimate of their losses in personal property by the fire could be arrived at.

THE REAL ESTATE

Destroyed averaged about as follows, the buildings burnt having been of an aged, rickety character, with a few exceptions:

Radovich, $100 on two houses; Mrs. Baker, $100 on three houses; M. C. Lake, $500 on three houses; Bob Hoy, $600 on a fine hard-finished house and $200 on another; Mr. Grove, $1,000 on house and gallery, outside of personal property; Women's Temperance Union, $300 on one house. Total, $3,400. Against this

THE INSURANCE

Amounted as follows: In Knorr's agency, $200; in Bender's agency, $150, mainly on Temperance building; in Martin's agency, on Hoy's property, $600.

This leaves a deficit of $2,450, which is a very low one on the buildings, leaving the property consumed out of the question. Mr. Fowle, the saddler, is the only one heard of so far who had any insurance on his stock, and that amounted to $450 only.

NARROW ESCAPES.

The fire consumed every building in its path, from Front street up to Mason, the saw-filer's, dwelling, and that was so burned that it is a part shell. The houses on the opposite side of Virginia street were severely scorched, Laycock's shop on the corner narrowly escaping taking fire. In the rear of the row of burning edifices, too, were several frame buildings, which if once on fire would have spread devastation to many a home westward. The business houses on the east side of Virginia street were smoking through their fronts for quite a while, until aided by the fire engines, the fierce heat subsided; but if one building had flamed up, the Pavilion and probably the whole stretch of Virginia street, from Front street to the railroad, would have disappeared in smoke, besides burning up many houses to the eastward. Fortunately, there was not a breath of wind stirring, and so Reno was saved from a repetition of her former fiery experience.

NEVADA & OREGON RAILROAD.

How the Work is Progressing—October 1st the Date for Commencing Operations.

In company with President Balch and Secretary King, W. R. Chamberlain, B. F. Small, A. H. Manning, T. K. Hymers and a Journal representative on Wednesday went to the "front" on the N. & O. R. R.

THE "FRONT"

Is now at a point twenty-six miles distant from Reno, where a force of thirty-one men are busily at work laying track, under the direction of D. J. Sullivan, whose experience in this kind of work on the Central Pacific and Virginia and Truckee roads, insures first-class work on the N. & O. Indeed the work done since Mr. Balch took charge of the road, has been performed in a better manner than ever before. Moore's work has been perfected, and all the new work made perfect from the start, the management believing it true economy to properly ballast the road now, instead of expending double the amount in keeping it in good condition next winter. The Company has suffered considerably from the delay in receiving iron, but iron has been delivered with more promptness lately, and the work is now going ahead with all possible dispatch. Rails for four miles have been received this week, and the remainder to complete the Reno division will be here by the 18th of the month. The rails on hand will take the road to the 29th mile post, just about to Chat Robert's ranch.

At the rate the track is now being laid, this will be done by the 16th instant. Trains will be put on "time," just as soon as the road reaches the 29th mile.

NEW ROLLING STOCK.

A new engine has been ordered from the East, and a passenger coach from San Francisco. Twenty new flat cars have also been ordered. The cars are expected here toward the 1st of the month, but the engine will not arrive until November 1st.

FUTURE PROSPECTS.

Mr. Balch intends to go right ahead with the next division of thirty miles which will end at Honey Lake, and enable the company to secure the Cedarville and Surprise Valley business. The Honey Lake Division will be laid with thirty-five-pound steel rails, which will be much better than the light thirty-pound iron rails put down on the Reno end of the road. In accordance with promise the Co. has already paid 15 per cent of Moore's labor claims, and will pay 10 per cent additional on Oct. 1st; and as the road goes on all the old debts will be gradually extinguished. The future prospects are bright, and it is only a matter of time when all who have stuck to it will be amply compensated.

An Explanation.

Mr. Bosch, the plumber and tinsmith, feels quite annoyed over the noising around of his having a whole carload of oil stored away in his cellar, on Commercial Row. He claims that he is doing no more than what is being done every day in Reno. An ordinance has been passed restricting the storage of coal oil within certain limits, just the same as powder and other inflammable material, and by the time it goes into effect Mr. Bosch declares he will have a storehouse in a safe place ready to receive all dangerous classes of his goods. He alleges that every day hundreds of cases of oil and giant powder are stored over both night and day in Earl's and the R. R. depot, and that powder in a much greater amount than allowed by law is kept in stock in many stores. He also asserts that this kick against him was started solely on account of his reducing the price of coal oil, thus benefiting the people of Reno, and that it originated purely in jealousy because coal oil that used to sell for $2 25 per five gallons, he reduced to $1 65. And so the case stands.

A Grave Subject Before the Commissioners.

In the report of the meeting of the Board of County Commissioners last Monday the fact was omitted that two bids for the burial of the county poor for one year had been received and acted on by the Board. The first was for twenty-five dollars per body, and the second for sixteen dollars. The award was made to the first bidder, though the higher, the second being rejected on the ground of irresponsibility.

Uncle John Nick.

Uncle John Richardson is suffering severely, under the weather from a severe attack of hemorrhoids, which confines him at home. General Evans is doing double duty now, but having become a giant almost since his northern trip, he stands the siege well.

The Matchless Liar of Chicago.

[Chicago Tribune.]

"You do not doubt Mr. Myrtle?" "Never!" exclaimed the girl, putting on her invisible net as she spoke and placing her bandoline bottle where she would be sure to see it in the morning.

The sun had glared down fiercely all day upon the parched earth, and now that night had come, the heat was even more oppressive than ever, because the cool wind that had been wafted from the lake during the day had died away. It was a dreamy, sensuous, one-gauze-under-shirt-and-no-vest evening, such as one often notices while traveling in Palestine.

"You have great faith in me, have you not, little one?" Vivian McCarthy said, taking the girl's off hand in his.

"Yes," replied Myrtle, "I believe in you with a child-like faith akin to that which enables a boy to bite a pie in the dark, and I love you with a deep tenderness and fair loyalty that can never die."

"And would you believe anything I you told?" Vivian murmured, kissing the dimpled hand that lay in his.

Looking at him with her starry eyes, in which there gleamed a holy love light, the girl replied slowly and with infinite pathos: "I would believe you every word, no matter what you told me."

"Then" said Vivian, while a baleful light shot from his near eye, "there is no ice cream in Chicago."

For an instant, dazed by the shock, Myrtle did not speak, but presently the voice of her heart found echo in words.

"I can never leave you now," she whispered. "There cannot be another such liar in all the wide, wide world."

At Oats in Eureka.

The Ruby Hill Mining News does not draw a very favorable picture of Democratic brotherly love in Eureka county. It says:

There seems to be an unusual amount of Democratic jangling in Eureka this year, and although this is an inherent necessity in the Democracy, it has gone to an extreme end thus far in the political prologue, and there have been extraordinary reasons for embitterment and segregation. The Adams and Canavan factions have made eternally lasting wounds, which fairly gape for revenge. Between the great leaders there are yawning chasms which cannot be bridged by party fealty. There is a dividing line between Jackson, the Hibernian boniface, and Colonel John Van Buren Perry, the great Adamson champion. Mills and Sadler are fairly bristling, and the first and second wards are arrayed against each other like warlike armies. If a wonderful sight of harmonizing is not done soon we are afraid (and at the same time willing) that the fight will terminate with these Democratic "scrabblers" as it did with the famous scrabblers of old Kilkenny.

A Rebel Reminiscence.

Raleigh (N. C.) News, June 1.

In 1862 William Johnson ran for Governor of North Carolina. The following is now published as his ticket on the occasion:

NORTH CAROLINA CONFEDERATE TICKET.

ITS PRINCIPLES.

An unremitting prosecution of the War; Complete Independence; Eternal Separation from the North; No abridgment of Southern territory; No compromise with enemies, traitors or Tories.

Jeff Davis, our Army, and the South.

FOR GOVERNOR,

WILLIAM JOHNSON,

OF MECKLENBURG.

Humors of the Nominations.

The prevalent opinion among Democrats yesterday about the nomination of Adams was freely expressed—"It's a dam good nomination and proves that old Adam is still the boss of the family when Adams can beat Myrtle(s)."

Advertising Medium.

The advertising columns of the JOURNAL afford an excellent opportunity to our readers to study out where purchases of all kinds can be made on the most advantageous terms. All classes of goods can there be found advertised from a suit of clothes or nice silk dress to the dearest ornament in the jewelry line. The JOURNAL reaches nearly every family as well as business house in the county, and, therefore, advertisers seek its columns that the public may know what they have for sale.

A COUGH, COLD OR SORE THROAT should be stopped. Neglect frequently results in an incurable Lung Disease or Consumption. BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES do not enter the stomach like cough syrups and balsams, but act directly on the inflamed parts, allaying irritation, giving relief in Asthma, Bronchitis, Coughs, Catarrh, and the Throat Troubles which Singers and Public Speakers are subject to. For thirty years Brown's Bronchial Troches have been recommended by physicians, and always gives perfect satisfaction. Having been tested by wide and constant use for nearly an entire generation, they have attained well-merited rank among the few safe remedies of the age. Sold at 25c. a box everywhere.
